

Senate Committee Approves Treaties With Reservations

Borah Only Remaining Irreconcilable When Foreign Relations Committee Votes on Pacts.

PRESIDENT SATISFIED WITH CHANCES MADE

U. S. Representation on World Bodies Created at Versailles Must Be Passed on by Lawmakers.

BY JOHN GLEISSNER, United News Staff Correspondent.

Washington, September 23.—President Harding, Secretary Hughes and the majority of the foreign relations committee are in agreement on treaties of peace with Germany, Austria and Hungary, as the pacts have been reported out with reservations attached.

This, it is thought, will expedite ratification of the treaties by the senate, as President Harding desires.

Senator Borah, irreconcilable leader, was alone among ten members of the committee in voting against the treaties Friday, and will continue his fight against them on the floor. Senator Johnson, who stood with Borah in the vigorous fight against the treaty of Versailles, announced that the new treaty as altered is satisfactory to him.

Borah bases his objection on the acceptance of certain clauses of the Versailles treaty in the new pact. It would, he contends, involve America in European affairs.

Principal Reservation. The principal reservation adopted is to prevent the participation of American representatives on any international bodies created under the Versailles treaty, without the express consent of congress.

The reservation, previously suggested by Borah, was proposed Friday by Senator Brandegee, another irreconcilable, and as finally adopted, written by Senator Lodge, chairman of the committee. Senators New and Kellogg opposed it, but later voted in favor of reporting out the treaty.

The other reservation, offered by Senator Pomerene, a democrat, is designed to assure to citizens of the country rights guaranteed to the government, so citizens with claims against Germany, like the Lusitania victims, will be protected.

Originally, Pomerene's reservation was offered as an amendment to the treaty, while the other reservation was contained in the ratifying clause. But after talk by Secretary Hughes, Senator Lodge incorporated both reservations in the ratifying clause, in phrasing suggested by Hughes.

No Essential Change. The main reservation is similar to that offered by Senator Lodge when the treaty of Versailles was before the senate. It had the support of President Harding, who was a senator at that time.

There were abundant indications that the administration hoped to get through by treaty, but without alteration, but it is held that the reservations made change them in no essential manner.

At least a considerable part of the possible opposition to the treaties is placated by the new reservation, as shown by the attitude of Senators Johnson, Brandegee and Shields, who are now satisfied.

"The new German treaty repudiates absolutely and wholly the 'league of nations' and the 'league of nations' is not as we see it regarding the Versailles treaty. It expressly absolves us of any obligation under the Versailles treaty. The reservation in our resolution of ratification in or representation upon any body or commission created by the Versailles treaty."

"Thus apparently we have accomplished all that we fought for since the league of nations was first proposed, and unless something now unforeseen arises, I think we can with perfect safety and while preserving our traditional policy, ratify the treaty with Germany."

To Withdraw Troops. Secretary Hughes supplied the committee with information that American troops now in Germany will be withdrawn when the treaty is ratified, as soon as transports can be provided. This was in response to the fear that undue pressure might be put on the treaty to help protect the Versailles pact.

The ratifying clause stipulates that the United States shall not participate in or be represented on any commission or body of any kind unless and until an act of congress shall provide for such representation or participation.

Senator Lodge, chairman of the committee, said that the three last named are democrats.

Woman Kills Self After She Wounds Girl in Brooklyn

World of "High Life" Blamed for Tragedy in Letter Left by Suicide.

New York, September 23.—Shot and wounded three times by her former chum, who then ended her own life with a bullet, Miss Mildred E. Hanan, daughter of the late Alfred P. Hanan, shoe manufacturer, tonight hovered between life and death in a Brooklyn hospital.

With the outcome of the girl's injuries still in doubt, police took up a back trail from the scene of the nocturnal tragedy in the world of "high life" blamed by Miss Hanan's assailant, Mrs. Grace Lawes, for the accumulated misery and heartache which impelled her to take her friend's life.

"The past few days, and the liquor has driven me crazy," she had written in a letter addressed to her mother.

Still another possible motive for the deed that of jealous rage over the attention a man who was with Miss Hanan when the shooting occurred is being scrutinized by detectives who are trying to clear up many unexplained points.

Denies Motherhood. For more than three hours this man, John S. Borland, importer and exporter, was questioned regarding details of the affair, as well as the circumstances of his acquaintance with the two women.

A further complication developed when San Francisco newspapermen reported they had located and questioned Mrs. M. E. Dittman, to whom, Mrs. Lawes had addressed a letter found among her effects.

Mrs. Dittman at first denied any relationship and then told her questioners she was a sister of the dead woman and volunteered the information that jealousy was not the motive of the killing. This information was at variance with both the salutation of the "mother darling" letter and the contents of another addressed to Mrs. Birdie Williams, a former nurse in the Hanan household, of which Mrs. Lawes had also been a member for four years.

"Make it easy for me, my dear mother," Mrs. Lawes had written in the second letter, which began with a request that her body be sent home to California cremated.

Stories Coincided. The story of the tragedy and the events preceding it told by the injured girl and Borland, a Dartmouth graduate, coincided closely. With Miss Dorothy Gottschalk, Miss Hanan told detectives she and Borland had shared a room at the Hotel Manhattan at 11 o'clock last night, she said, she and Borland drove Miss Gottschalk to her home in Schermerhorn street, Brooklyn, where they stayed until shortly after 1 o'clock.

"We had just emerged from the vestibule when I saw Mrs. Lawes step from an arway," Miss Hanan continued. "The next thing I heard three pistol shots. I dropped to the sidewalk and lay there for a moment, blood running from my arm."

"I ran for a hundred feet and collapsed. I then heard another shot fired."

It was this last shot that ended the life of Mrs. Lawes.

One Other Witness. One other person witnessed the tragedy. A neighbor of Miss Gottschalk's said she was at her window and saw Mrs. Lawes sit down on a nearby stoop, take a cup from her handbag and drink from it, and then she saw the vessel into the gutter. Searchers later found fragments of the china and in the dead woman's bag a pill labeled with the name of a drug.

Borland, while admitting that he and Mrs. Lawes had been drinking, emphatically denied that any feeling concerning himself had led to the shooting. He said the motive was "positively not jealousy."

He expressed the belief that she was temporarily insane, and that she was temporarily insane.

Mrs. Lawes was related to Miss Hanan by marriage, and lived with the Hanan family until two weeks ago when she moved to an apartment in the Vanderbilt hotel. She was divorced several years ago from her husband, Edgar E. Schmidt, and resumed her maiden name of Lawes.

Sixteen-Ounce Loaf Back to Five Cents At Rogers' Stores

Announcement that beginning Saturday sixteen-ounce loaves of bread would be sold in the Rogers' stores for five cents was made Friday by officials of the company.

It is pointed out by officials of the company that the price of the loaf is even lower than before the war, as the same loaf then sold for seven cents. Since the war it has retained a price of five cents.

To Build Houses. McDonough, Ga., September 23.—Extensive improvements have been made on the old Forest hotel at McDonough by the owner, J. S. Rodgers, and the hotel is now being converted into a large city lot near the county courthouse, has torn down the outbuildings and off some of the most valuable lots in the city. He expects to build residences and business houses on the lots.

Sheriff Seizes Liquor; Son Is Now Indicted When Part Disappears

Trenton, Ga., September 23.—As a sequel to the seizure of a carload of whisky while in transit from a Kentucky distillery to druggists in Los Angeles, Cal., here some months ago by Sheriff Holmes, his son, Troy Holmes, was today indicted by the grand jury for the larceny of nine cases of the liquor from the Dade county jail.

Following the seizure of the car, Southern officials enjoined the sheriff from destroying the whisky and he was ordered by the federal court in Atlanta to place it in jail until the case could be heard. This case is still pending and it has been charged that a large portion of the whisky has disappeared, some of it finding its way to the hands of bootleggers in Chattanooga.

SEEK INJUNCTION AGAINST MEMBERS OF MINERS' UNION

Suit on Behalf of Operators in West Virginia Is Filed by Corporation.

TO PROTECT WORKERS FROM INTERFERENCE

Court Asked to Make Void Contracts Between Operators and Union Calling for Closed Shop.

Indianapolis, September 23.—Suit asking an injunction against the United Mine Workers of America, its officers and members, was filed by the United States district court for Indianapolis today by the Boardman Coal corporation of West Virginia to prevent the union from interfering with the employees of the corporation in the Thacker and Williamson coal fields of Mingo county, West Virginia, and Pike county, Kentucky.

The plaintiff avers that it brings the suit on behalf of itself and sixty-two coal mining companies and operators having their mining plants in the Thacker and Williamson districts.

The court is asked to adjudge as illegal and void contracts heretofore entered into between the operators of the central competitive field and the operators of other unorganized districts and the United Mine Workers organization, which contracts, it is averred, provide for a closed shop and the payment of the "check off."

BRITISH CABINET SPLIT ON IRELAND

George Waits on Unanimous Approval by Ministers to Reply to Sinn Fein Now Drafted.

BY RALPH H. TURNER, United News Staff Correspondent.

London, September 23.—With two distinct views held by members of the British cabinet regarding the tenor of the reply Lloyd-George should send to Eamon de Valera, the next development in the Irish question rests upon the final approval of the full cabinet of the draft already contemplated by the premier and forwarded by him to those ministers who failed to attend the meeting at Gairloch.

The conference in Scotland found the liberal cabinet members in a minority, and Lloyd-George, it is understood, has refused to move without the unqualified sanction of the entire body.

A new note involves, first of all, consideration of the capacity in which De Valera's colleagues will attend the conference, secondly, the basis upon which the conference will be held, the cabinet is whether the conference shall begin with the reservation that Britain will not discuss the question of separation at all, or whether a demand is to be made that De Valera renounce all claim to Irish independence and accept the principle of British sovereignty in advance.

It is believed that in its present form, the reply emphatically states that separation will not and cannot be discussed, but that this expression will not be couched in terms so strong as to offend Sinn Fein and prevent the conference being held.

The prevailing opinion at Gairloch was that De Valera should be given even now has not definitely withdrawn his right to claim separation from Ireland at the moment of conference opens. It is therefore expected that De Valera will be asked to make himself explicit on this point. The government still holds to the view that the only possible basis for a settlement of the Irish question is the principle of British sovereignty in advance.

The cabinet members from whom Lloyd-George has now sought an opinion are expected to reply to this question on Monday, and the new note to De Valera accordingly should go forward early in the week.

Police at Dublin are watching every ship port for suspected import of arms, for the first time since the truce went into effect. Passengers arriving at the port of Dublin are questioned and all ships are searched. The same care is taken at Kingston.

British authorities claim that republicans are taking up arms again and drilling in anticipation of a break in the peace negotiations.

Reading of Records. The prosecution of the officers was by agreement confined to the reading of the stenographic record of the testimony of Lamar and Holley, the South Carolina farmers, fled by Powers and his associates.

EVANS AND HUNTER BOTH LOSE CHANCE FOR GOLF CROWN

Jess Guilford and Bob Gardner to Fight for the Amateur Title Today.

STEADY CHICAGO STAR VANQUISHES BRITISHER

Present Champion Falls Before Terrific Power of Famous Boston "Siege Gun."

BY ALEXANDER F. JONES, United News Staff Correspondent.

St. Louis, Country Club, Clayton, Mo., September 23.—This was a fine day for ducks, Jesse Guilford, the Boston "siege gun," and Bob Gardner, of Chicago.

It was a terror on dry feet, Chick Evans, the amateur golf champion, and Willie I. Hunter, the holder of the handsome, hand wrought British trophy of golf supremacy.

The two champions were laid at rest and neat little epitaphs bearing the legend "He tried hard but sank in the mud," were placed at their headstones in the semi-finals of the national amateur golf championship tournament here Friday. Gardner defeated Hunter, brilliant conqueror of Bobby Jones, 5 and 4, and Guilford defeated Evans, 7 and 5.

Both matches were anti-climatic and sudden. The players teed off in the morning in a driving rain, the rain never stopped all day long. The greens were nice wading pools.

The greens were nice wading pools. The players went around the course carrying umbrellas, and were followed by a gallery that looked like one of those pictures of Chinese coolies.

Way to work on a damp morning. In spite of this Gardner and Guilford played mighty fine golf. Big fellows and mighty drivers, the day was made for them against such brilliant, fast golfers as Evans and Hunter.

Chick's Downfall. Chick's downfall was obvious from the first gun. He couldn't roll a watermelon into the Atlantic ocean with a base fiddle. When the game ended on the nineteenth green—thirteen, Friday, and the 23d, no wonder—he knew every ditch, trap, bunker and tree on the course by its nickname and had a perfect record of not sinking a putt over 12 feet long all day.

Guilford, on the other hand, was hitting them far away and over the hill, and with a nice lead, playing his approach shots safe and sinking them in two putts, on the average.

Willie Hunter, the wee lad from the other side, was up against a new game. Thursday he got on Bobby Jones' nerves with his persistent putting and deliberate putting. Friday the more he deliberated the longer Bob Gardner could stay under his umbrella and that was fine with Bob Gardner who was three up at noon and in the afternoon was never headed, or even threatened.

Willie, who is an accurate player at all times, was flustered a bit as Bob stepped up, hole after hole, and laid them down where an easy approach was possible. He started trying for birdies along about the tenth hole and for the first time became acquainted with all the little creeks and harrowed ground that they call the "rough." But Willie deliberated sometimes three minutes on a putt. He wiped his ball, went over the green six times.

Two Detectives Get Reprimand For Bunco Case

Jones and Whitley Are Tried at Meeting of Police Commission.

If you should see some Caucasian gentleman walking the streets of Atlanta with a black face, do not necessarily draw the conclusion that he is a member of the ministerial organization of the late Al G. Field.

Look carefully under the label of his coat. If you discover a red vest badge there, you can put it down that he is an Atlanta policeman in approved disguise.

This method of disguise has not yet been used by members of the police department, but it has been suggested by no less an authority than James L. Beavers, chief of that department, and was suggested for no less a momentous occasion than the arrest of Abe Powers, famous confidence man.

It all came out Friday night at the trial before the board of police commissioners of former detectives O. R. Jones and Roy Whitley, accused by the famous bunco investigator committee of city council of inefficiency in connection with the apprehension of the celebrated Abe.

Reading of Records. The prosecution of the officers was by agreement confined to the reading of the stenographic record of the testimony of Lamar and Holley, the South Carolina farmers, fled by Powers and his associates.

Nation to Honor Unknown War Dead On Armistice Day

Country Will Pause for Two Minutes to Honor Unnamed Hero of War.

Washington, September 23.—The nation will stand at pause for two minutes on Armistice day to pay honor to the unknown dead of the great war.

Detailed plans for the ceremony at Arlington national cemetery on this day when the body brought back from France is to be buried were made public by the war department today and include a proclamation by President Harding calling for the two-minute halt at noon throughout the nation to be devoted to prayer and reverent memories of the fallen.

The line of march being guarded throughout its length by troops stationed along the way. The mourning party will include all living holders of the congressional medal of honor, who may desire to come, one war veteran out of every 10,000 who served from each state in the great war; an officer and an enlisted man from each unit of the army and navy and representative of the American Legion and other veterans' organizations and of the various patriotic societies.

From American military posts everywhere in the world minute guns of mourning will sound from sunrise until after the burial ceremonies in Washington have been completed.

Plans for the ceremony were made public by Major General Harbord, acting secretary of war and chief of staff today in the presence of Secretary Weeks and General Pershing. They were drawn up under General Harbord's personal supervision and provide with the detailed completeness of army orders in the field for every phase of the solemn ceremony with which the nation will pay its tribute to the men whose identity as well as those whose lives were lost on the battlefields of France.

MISS LEITCH WINS FROM ATLANTA

Miss Stirling Fights Game Uphill Battle, But Loses on Seventeenth Green.

Ottawa, September 23.—Miss Cecil Leitch, of England, the "wonder girl" of golf, today defeated Miss Alice Leitch, of Atlanta, Ga., in the semi-final of the Dominion's annual tournament.

The semi-final matches between the two young women who are universally regarded as the best players in the game, ended at the seventeenth green with a victory by three and one for the champion of Great Britain and France.

Miss Stirling will defend her title again as United States champion, and will play the final match with Miss Leitch, of Montreal, in the final round of the Canadian tournament today. Miss Leitch defeated Miss Edith Leitch in the other semi-final by two and one. Miss Edith Leitch is sister of the British champion and intends to enter the United States tournament with her and Miss Doris Chambers, another English woman who played in the Canadian event.

Second Meeting. This was the second meeting at match between the British champion and Miss Stirling. Miss Leitch defeated Miss Stirling in the first round of the British open championship at Turnberry, Scotland, early this year.

A large gallery at the Rivermead course was delighted by Miss Stirling's uphill battle today and frequently applauded her as well as her opponent. Both made thrilling recoveries from bad lies when the shots were carried off by a strong wind. The match began as if it were to be an easy victory for Miss Leitch as every contest in the tournament has been, but Miss Stirling, after losing three of the first four holes, was only one down at the turn and made it even at the tenth by a birdie three. Bunkering on two occasions thereafter and poor putting on another caused her to lose three holes and the match.

The cards: Miss Leitch—Out—542 546 554—40 Miss Stirling—In—555 565 644—42 Miss Leitch—In—454 653 45 Miss Stirling—In—365 653 46

First Hole Match. A strong northwest wind was blowing when the match began, but both had excellent drives and halved the first hole in five. Miss Leitch won the second with a well-played four, Miss Stirling having poor luck on her approach.

On the third Miss Stirling's long drive was nunkered to the right of the green. She made a feeble out, short with her putt and took a five. Miss Leitch playing a three. The fourth saw the American champion playing nervously. Her first putt was too strong and this cost

ARBuckle GUESTS REPEAT IN COURT STORIES OF PARTY

Semnacher Is First Witness Called on Second Day of Preliminary Hearing on Murder Charge.

DEFENSE ATTORNEYS WIN ON LEGAL POINT

Witness Says He Can't Swear There Was Liquor, But Bottles Were Labeled "Gin" and "Whisky."

San Francisco, September 23.—Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle's Labor day golf jollification which ended in "fatty" arrest on charge of murdering Virginia Rappe, was described in detail by Arbuckle's guests at Friday's session of his preliminary hearing on a charge of murder.

The famous comedian sat listening intently to every word spoken and now and then glancing down at his diminutive wife, Minta Durfee, who huddled close to him.

Mrs. Arbuckle was dressed in dark street clothes and silently watched the proceedings which carried her husband's shadow of the gallows. Now and then she grasped his hand but seldom showed any signs of emotion. Her mother and sister were in court with her.

The story told was practically the same as recited at the coroner's inquest. It was a review of how Arbuckle was alleged to have entertained with gin, Scotch whisky and orange juice a handful of his friends and San Francisco show girls at a party at the Hotel Richmond. The guests had worn conventional clothes and the host had been in pajamas, bathrobe and slippers. It was plainly "an informal gathering of friends," as one witness described it.

Many Women Present. The courtroom was filled with San Francisco clubwomen, who had been sent there as a committee "to see if our presence will not eliminate some of the morbid features from this case."

No one was allowed on the second floor of the hall of justice without permits, and many were turned away unable to satisfy their curiosity to see the fat comedian facing a charge of justice.

Al Semnacher was the first witness called. He testified that he took Virginia Rappe and Mrs. Hamblin Maude Belmont to the Arbuckle apartment in the St. Francis Hotel early in the afternoon of Labor day. There they joined a party consisting of Arbuckle and Lowell Sherman, who were seated at a table eating breakfast. Arbuckle clad in pajamas, slippers and dressing gown; Fred Fischback, Ira Fawcett, Zey Pyron, Al Black and Mrs. Maude, all in street clothes, and seated around the table singing, and some of them drinking.

Semnacher did not know of his knowledge that the party was drinking liquor, but he said the bottles were labeled "Gin" and "Whisky," "White Rock Water" and "Orange Juice," and that they were drinking what those bottles contained. He said he left the party about 1:30 or 2 p. m. and was gone for about an hour. He believed the same people were present when he returned.

Semnacher testified that he again left the party, taking two girls to his home, and when he returned Mrs. Rappe was gone from the room. Two girls, whose names he could not state, went into the adjoining room, and in a moment rushed out crying:

"Miss Rappe is very ill!" Everyone ran into the room, Semnacher testified. He said Miss Rappe was lying on one of two twin beds.

At this point attorneys went into a verbal engagement, the defense demanding that the state declare Semnacher a "hostile witness," and the examination be made cross-examination.

After a long argument the defense won its point and court took a recess.

Girl Was Nude. Continuing his testimony, Semnacher said:

"Miss Rappe was lying on one of the twin beds. Her hat and cape were on a chair. Her stockings, shoes and karters were on the floor. Her under garments were in the wastebasket. I found them there later. She was entirely nude and was rolling from side to side and moaning."

"Was it a loud or a soft moan?" asked Assistant District Attorney Golden.

"It was between a loud and a soft moan," was Semnacher's description of what he heard.

"Some of the girls shouted to get a glass of water, others said ammonia, and everyone suggested what to do," he continued.

It was finally decided to give Miss Rappe a cold bath. The bath, Semnacher said he believed, was given her by the women members of the party.

Semnacher described how a doctor was called and Miss Rappe moved to another room.

Took Her Clothes. "I went back to the room where Miss Rappe had been," he testified, "and picked up her clothes, taking

Article in Searchlight Written by Hutcheson Claimed to Be "Treason"

Mrs. Tyler Given Confidence Vote By Atlanta Klan

W. F. Brandt and Representative of World Call Upon Federal Officials for Ruling in Case.

GRAND JURY PROBING MUTILATED RECORDS

Not Sufficient Evidence Yet for Indictments—C. H. Meyers Bound Over by Judge Hathcock.

Important developments came to light in the Ku Klux Klan situation here Friday. They were as follows:

Attention of the office of the United States district attorney was called by W. F. Brandt, local attorney, who was accompanied by a representative of The New York World to an article appearing in Friday's issue of The Searchlight, organ of the Klan, the claim being made that it amounted to treason.

This article, signed by Carl F. Hutcheson, was interpreted as a call to arms for civil warfare against Catholics.

Refusal of Assistant District Attorney John W. Henley to give a definite ruling on the matter and of Chief Postoffice Inspector Louis Johnson to act. Statement by Hooper Alexander, district attorney, who was not in his office at the time, that the matter had not officially reached his attention and that he could not make a statement.

Evidence Insufficient. Announcement by Solicitor-General John A. Boykin that insufficient evidence to warrant issuance of true bills was presented Friday to the Fulton grand jury in the investigation of the mysterious disappearance of court and police records in the E. V. Clarke-Mrs. Elizabeth Tyler disorderly conduct case.

Binding over of C. H. Meyers, pressman, charged with one of the matting jobs of The Searchlight, by Judge T. O. Hathcock in municipal court, and admission by the prosecution that The New York World was in no way concerned with the alleged treason of the matting job of The Searchlight.

In discussing the possibility of treason in The Searchlight article, Attorney Brandt and The World representative called at the federal building on Assistant District Attorney Henley with a copy of the Klan publication. Little encouragement was given by Attorney Henley, who could find no law which would fit the case in question.

Asked for Opinion. Mr. Henley, who was asked to give an opinion on it, the assistant district attorney was asked:

"What for?" Mr. Henley inquired.

"Well, we consider it treason; we don't know what you call it," was the reply.

Mr. Henley read the document. "I don't see anything in here against the government," he announced.

"Is it not treason in that it incites religious warfare?" the official was asked. "It incites war against various people because of their religion. Is there not ground for action somewhere?" Mr. Henley was also asked for a definition of treason.

Mr. Henley had recourse to the law books but declared that he could find nothing that applied in this particular instance. However, he cited section 211 of the federal penal code which makes it a crime punishable by a fine of not more than $5,000 or imprisonment of not more than five years to send "indecent" matter through the mails.

"Indecent" is defined in the section as including anything which incites arson, assassination or murder. Mr. Henley declined to express an opinion as to whether the article was or was not "indecent."

If We Only Understood. Could we judge all deeds by motives? That surrounded each other's lives. See that naked heart and spirit. Know what spur the action gives. Often we would find it better just to judge all action good! We should love each other better if we only understood. —Kipling.

The Weekly Market Basket. THAT SOMETHING DIFFERENT DISH.

Tomato Tulp. Cut the tops from tomatoes and slice downward for a short distance. Fill with finely chopped green peppers and onions and boiled rice and bake in an oven for about twenty minutes, setting each tomato on a slice of pepper. Serve hot with a bit of mayonnaise on top.

Baked Ham With Potatoes. One and a half pounds ham, sliced; 3 cups sliced potatoes, 1 cup bread crumbs, 1-2 cups grated cheese, salt and pepper, milk to cover. Order the ham sliced an inch thick, fry slightly on both sides, cover with the potatoes; add a dash of salt and pepper, the amount of salt depending on the saltiness of the ham, sprinkle the cheese and crumbs over the top, cover the whole with milk and bake in a moderate oven for an hour and a half.

Creamed Boiled Ham. The next time you have boiled ham try cutting some of it in thin small bits and creaming just like dried beef. This is a dish our English cousins are fond of and with baked potatoes make an excellent luncheon.

OLD VEGETABLES MADE NEW. A pleasant variety in serving peas will be found in adding a parsley sauce. To the peas add several sprigs of chopped parsley and boil as usual. When the peas are thoroughly cooked strain off the liquid, of which there should be two cups. This will contain most of the parsley. To this add a little cream, butter, salt and pepper. The parsley will give the peas a delightful flavor and the dish will be found unusually palatable.

Boiled Radishes. Radishes, when large or strong-flavored, may be cooked to advantage. Wash, trim closely and boil for twenty minutes or until tender; thicken the water in which they were boiled with a teaspoon of cornstarch and season liberally with salt and butter. They taste like spicy turnips and the color is odd and attractive.

Radishes and Beefsteak. Try cooking radishes with your beefsteak, trying them with the steak and in plenty of butter. The result is delicious and so like mushrooms in flavor that very few eating them would recognize the difference.

Tomatoes and White Sauce. A very successful entree served recently at a house party dinner was concocted from medium-sized whole tomatoes peeled and stuffed with a finely minced mixture of nut meats, chives and celery moistened with a little French dressing. Over all was poured what appeared to be the accustomed mayonnaise, but which proved to be a very rich, piping hot, white sauce thickened with egg and containing a suspicion of onion. One tomato served on a diamond of toast to each guest.

Eggs and Tomatoes--Pepper Sauce. Cook six eggs until hard. Peel them, but leave them whole and keep them warm. Now make a sauce of butter, flour and one cup of tomatoes; add one green pepper minced very fine, one tablespoon of parsley also minced fine; add salt to taste. Have ready six rounds toast. Cover the toast with some of the sauce. Place an egg on each round and pour over the sauce.

SPICY AND SWEET. Cinnamon Rolls. Mix a rich baking powder biscuit dough to which has been added one-half cup sugar and one-half teaspoon cinnamon to each pint flour. Roll out as nearly square as possible, spread lightly with softened butter, sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon, mixed. Beginning at one end, roll closely and carefully. With a sharp knife cut off half-inch sections and lay in greased baking pans about 2 inches apart. Bake quickly.

Stuffed Peaches. Peel and slice in halves six fresh peaches. Break three sprigs of mint into one cup of boiling water. Cover closely and let stand till cool.

Urges Retention Nitrate Feature At Muscle Shoals

Washington, September 23.—(Special by Constitution Leased Wire.)—When a proposition for the development of Muscle Shoals, Ala., is accepted by the government, Senator Tamm, Georgia, today urged Secretary Weeks to have a provision made that the nitrate plant shall function in peace time as it was originally constructed to provide a source of nitrate supply for war time use. Senator Harris said that the nitrate would provide cheaper fertilizer for the farmers, and he was anxious in the development of the project that the nitrate feature not be lost sight of as a water power project. Secretary Weeks promised every consideration would be given the suggestion when the matter was being arranged.

DEPUTY MARSHAL SHOT BY BURGLARS

Deputy Marshal Howard Parker is in a critical condition at Davis-Fischer sanitarium where he was rushed shortly after noon Friday following a battle with two negro burglars, one of whom fired point blank at Mr. Parker, hitting him twice. Attending physicians expressed belief that he will recover, although he is very weak from loss of blood caused by internal hemorrhage.

Lying in the same ward is Deputy G. W. Grubbs, whose action in volunteering to submit to a blood transfusion probably saved his comrades' lives. His condition is not considered serious.

Will Arnold, 24 years old, of 246 West Morris Avenue and Jim Davenport, 26 years old, of 27 1-2 Foundry street, both negroes, were taken into custody about 2 o'clock by detectives and are being held on suspicion. The arrests were made by Detectives Sturdivant and Powers.

The shooting occurred a few minutes after noon. Deputies Parker and Grubbs were walking down East Linden street, when they were called by Mrs. J. M. Sausure, who lives at 309 East Linden street. She told them that she had seen two negro men prowling around the home across the street and that they had just entered it.

The home is owned by Charles A. Cook, who is in charge of the automobile license tag department in the state capital. The Cook family is out of town, and when the two officers entered the house, located at 315 East Linden street, they surprised the two negroes in the act of ransacking a number of drawers.

Surprised and taken aback, one of the negroes leaped from an open window, by which the pair had gained access. The other jerked out a pistol and fired point blank at Mr. Parker, who was unarmed, as he was off of duty at the time.

His companion, Deputy Grubbs, armed and fired at the negro as he leaped from the window following his partner. The two negroes disappeared and all trace of them was lost.

Deputy Grubbs immediately went to the aid of his friend and rendered all assistance until an ambulance arrived. At the sanitarium internal hemorrhages had caused Mr. Parker to become weak, and from loss of blood and it was announced that only by blood transfusion could his life be saved. Mr. Grubbs immediately volunteered and an incision was quickly made and his blood was in a moment pouring through the veins of the injured marshal.

Detectives were immediately assigned to the case, and an hour later had arrested the two suspects, who are being held pending further investigation.

A negro named Snow Lloyd, 30 years old, of 191 East Morris street, was arrested at 6 o'clock Friday night by Officers Evans and Goode, charged with stealing a harness. Following the arrest, Lloyd expressed the belief that Lloyd might have been one of the negroes by whom Deputy Marshal Parker was shot.

They believe, they declare, that at the hearing before Recorder Johnson Saturday morning, Lloyd and Jim Davenport will be held as the men who shot the officer. Blanket charges of suspicion have been entered against Lloyd, Davenport and Will Arnold. Deputy Marshal Parker and Deputy Grubbs will be asked to identify the men as soon as they are able to appear.

them to her. Later I returned and got her stockings, shirtwaist and under garments and put them in my automobile.

The last hour of the hearing was devoted to questioning Semmacker as to what caused him to take Miss Rappe's garments away with him.

I intended to keep them and show them to her and joke her about being so interested that she tore up her clothes," he insisted.

As a second purpose I intended to dust my automobile with the Court adjourned with the lawyers wrangling over what seemed to be a groundwork for attempted impeachment which the state was trying to lay.

The hearing was to be resumed Saturday.

Hardwick Hoping For Good Results In Disarming Meet

Earnest hope for good results from the disarmament conference to be held in Washington was expressed by Governor Hardwick in an interview requested by the Washington Herald, which newspaper asked the governor to state his views on the purposes of the conference.

Following is the telegram of the governor sent to The Herald Friday: "The Washington Herald, Washington, D. C.

"The world is staggering under the load of debt caused by war. An alarming portion of the expenses of government in all civilized countries is occasioned by appropriations to meet obligations for past or present preparation for future wars. In the serious circumstances that confront the world, limitation of armaments in all the principal nations would not only be a great relief to overburdened taxpayers and to staggering business, but is a real necessity for both."

"The reduction of armaments means even more than this. If the appropriations for war are lessened, the probabilities of war are proportionately decreased. I earnestly hope for the best of results from the coming conference."

"THOMAS W. HARDWICK, Governor."

SHIPWRECKED SAILORS FOUND IN ATLANTIC

New York, September 23.—Thirty shipwrecked sailors have been picked up in the Atlantic by the steamship Cabo Creux, which wirelessly her owners today that she would dock here Sunday. No details were given in the message. The steamer left Seville, Spain, September 7, for this port.

In marine circles the belief was expressed that the sailors were picked up September 14 or 15 after the great gale that swept the Atlantic. At that time the Cabo Creux was on the southern trans-Atlantic course.

A number of steamships in the storm area were damaged.

Memorial Services Held for 44 Hero Dead at Terminal

Chaplain Randolph in his short speech declared that no more shipments of bodies to Atlanta from France will be made during the next few weeks.

ITS MEANING TO GEORGIA

Shall Georgia continue to stultify and starve her institutions; and their facilities around which their usefulness revolve?

Shall she surrender her place as the Empire State of the South through a penurious and inexcusable policy of "economy"?

She has been doing it. More than ever she is doing it today; and just as sure as the shadows follow an eclipse the chickens will go to roost in broad daylight unless there is a change.

And there is no time to temporize or mince words about it. The state is face to face this very day with an eventuality that shows the drift.

The people of Georgia can but read with alarm the dispatches from Philadelphia that Dr. K. G. Matheson, president of the Georgia School of Technology, has been tendered the presidency of the Drexel Institute of that city at a salary of $16,500 a year—a salary more than double the salary that he is receiving in Georgia.

If Dr. Matheson accepts the offer, under the circumstances no person can blame him, for $7,000 a year is a miserly and incompetent remuneration for the executive of a great national institution as is the Georgia Tech—built up to its powerful position as the greatest educational asset of the south today through his guidance and direction.

Dr. Matheson rocked the cradle of this institution in its infancy, and through the years that have followed he has nursed and trained it, in the face of discouraging indifference on the part of the state at large, until, in the scope of its usefulness, it ranks in the front of technological schools in America.

It is hoped that a way may be found so that he may not be forced to leave the institution in the making of which he has figured so conspicuously; but if he does Georgia will have only herself to blame.

The tendency to embarrass the institutions of this state by withholding proper support, and that encouragement which is so essential to growth and development, is the greatest menace that confronts Georgia today.

Call it "economy," or call it "business prudence," through unavailability of funds, or what not, there is not a thinking citizen in Georgia who does not know that this state can provide the revenues if Florida, or the Carolinas, or Alabama, or the Carolinas can. There is not a thinking citizen who does not know that if "economy" it is false; if "business prudence" it is a travesty upon the unmistakable value of education and training in preparing the young for waging the battles of life.

Today there is a veritable cataclysm in Georgia created by the attitude of the legislature in curbing the usefulness of her institutions, educational and humane, and the revolt of a justly indignant people against a policy that is nothing more nor less than gross neglect.

To illustrate—
The last legislature actually cut the salary of the president of the Georgia Agricultural college from $7,000 to $5,000 a year—to the great embarrassment of an institution that is one of the state's most potential factors in solving the present day problems of reconstruction.

That Dr. Soule is a trained, experienced and competent teacher and executive has been demonstrated by the great work already accomplished by that institution.

In the face of a disgraceful political feud, and in the face of a flagrant lack of co-operation from correlative branches of the state government.

And yet, though stunted by insufficient appropriations and embarrassed by legislative restrictions, there has never been a time in Georgia when the state needed so much to grasp the opportunities afforded by this institution.

Time was when Georgia depended upon cotton as a money crop. The state produced her two to two and a quarter million bales each year. This year the widest estimates place the yield below a million bales. The day will probably never come again when Georgia will produce more than half the maximum yield of former days. The advent of the boll weevil assures that.

But if she maintains her place as the Empire State of the South something must take the place of cotton—not only to provide what cotton did; not only to survive the mastery of the boll weevil, but to profit by the enforced condition, and to make other money crops provide more than the fifty to a hundred million dollars that the excess yield of cotton formerly brought into the state. It can be done, but it can only be done through an intelligent knowledge of how to do it.

There are 310,000 farms in Georgia—the largest number in any state in the union except Texas—and yet, with a predominant agricultural position, the legislature would embarrass its great agricultural college, and reduce the salary of its executive head, whose competency has never been challenged, to less than the compensation of a head porter in a first-class hotel in New York or Chicago.

Is that wise "economy"? Is it "business prudence"? Can Georgia hope to maintain her place as the Empire State, with such a policy?

Georgia must get away from cotton! How?

Look at Colorado. Only a few years ago that state depended upon mining almost exclusively. Silver was king, just as cotton has been king in Georgia. The day came when Cripple Creek and Pueblo and Trinidad, and the rest of the mining camps yielded to a reconstruction created by the demonstration of silver; and Colorado found herself bereft of her silver crop. What did she do? Did she cry "economy," and do nothing?

On the contrary—
She established one of the great agricultural colleges in the United States, and undertook, with force and enthusiasm, what she had had no incentive to do while silver was king—the conversion of Colorado into a great agricultural state.

And the barren foothills of the Rockies were turned into pastures; and the valleys were made to blossom with grain. Today Colorado is one of the richest agricultural and stock-raising states in America. She is not dependent upon any one product, from mine or farm, and her great agricultural college laid the foundation for diversity that made it all possible.

Georgia is confronted by no less acute a crisis; and yet Georgia would stultify her vocational institutions, and expect her great agricultural college to function satisfactorily in this new day in the face of nagging and penury.

It can't be done.
The sooner the state learns the lesson the better—for there are nearly 3,000,000 people interested in the outcome.

The Indianapolis News says it isn't safe to carry a revolver now, "for the highwayman may get away with it, as well as the money."

Science has been trying to account for the magic of Babe Ruth. That's what it means to be a striking personality.

"Human life is longer now," says a scientist. And to think that, in spite of high prices and income tax, we still get away with it.

We are not worried as much about signals from Mars as we are about indications from the coal man that the bill's coming.

The season's grape crop is under suspicion. The muscadine refuses to grow on a one-half of one per cent oasis.

Those Norwegians would resent the imputation that they want the earth; and yet they're kicking about 14 per cent liquor.

Overseer Volviva, of Zion City, declares "the earth is flat"—but glories in it—ne can't say it's flat broke, in this season.

Of course if summer has decided to spend the winter with us there's no use sticking up the not-at-home sign.

The weather is favorable to the biggest fish stories, and as a snake-producer the "moonshine" can't be beat.

Just From Georgia

A Dream
I say, "This life without her is but loss—
World-voices discords, all things incomplete,
The bitter
In the brimmed cup of life's sweet.
Life's phantom
gold elusive
In the most
I shall forget her
And take up the cross,
And heaven alone shall hear my heart's wild beat."
When the cross is laid at her feet,
And ship-wrecked on Life's Galilee
I toss,
One star in all the storms that o'er me sweep—
One heaven sheltered where the shore-lights gleam;
One that, as tender as the kiss
of sleep,
One beautiful, bright dream with in a dream!
A joy—a grief; but I, her worshiper,
Beat down the barriers of a world
to her!

HEALTH TALKS
BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

GIRLS MUST PLAY.
Here's a letter from an unfortunate girl whose education is being sadly neglected:

Dear Doctor Brady:
I am a girl 16 years old, 66 inches tall, weighing 135 pounds. I am very well built except my chest, which is not so broad as it should be. I have no time to develop.
Could you suggest some remedy?

Another thing I would like to ask,
I have continually a very tired feeling. It does me no good to rest. I sleep a good deal and eat likewise. I have completed my studies in the school and am now a junior carrying an extra hard program—I study from 8:30 to 12, and again from 1 to 4, taking out a short time for dinner. From 3:30 to 5 I practice singing. Another reason why I can't understand about my chest development, is that I have a good quantity and control of voice.

My father seems to think I work too hard. You? I love the work.
John Latham, president of the club, has remained since school closed.

Sincerely yours,
J. F. P.

Five hours of study a day is too much for even a college girl.
Course study and smash one of pouter and pore over books hours each day, not studying any.
It is a ruinous habit, grinding it out of the system. Another book bath, it is better for your mental training to go without the bath.
If you are a student, you should study this young woman imagines she is doing. It is the amount of physical training she is not receiving.

Her father is on the right track.
More power to the fathers of girls.
If he will put on a Terrible Temper and tell his daughter to go to her room and study, she will study.
If the young woman's subjects of "Caesar's Commentaries" and I wonder if Caesar would blush for him to tell the young woman to study the Commentaries for a day, things will right themselves in a day or two.

The schools are slowly looking up.
Every little while a new one is built,
nowadays with a regular gymnasium, a swimming pool and everything in it just as though the body had no connection with the mind.
These are sorry times for the hangover school-masters who were death on anything.

That tired feeling our young correspondent complains of—it is very popular with young people at large.
It is the result of a bad habit of study with sub-oxidation or insufficient draft for the vital fire. Oxygen will cure it. Dr. F. Schick, increases the absorption of oxygen, as nothing else will. Physical training is good for the brain, too, you know.

A High-Up Challenge.
I.

STREET NEWS STANDS

IN COMMITTEE

Out-of-town newspapers, vended on Atlanta streets for the edification and satisfaction of the city's guests, were out in a brief fight waged before the ordinance committee of city council at its meeting yesterday afternoon, when it was decided to suspend action on an ordinance presented by Alderman Garner, which would remove all carts from permanent stands on Atlanta streets, whether they purveyed peanuts, frankfurters, watermelons, peaches or pappas.

The idea in Mr. Garner's ordinance was that the downtown district was suffering additional congestion because of the presence of these carts on the streets. Councilman Robert H. Jones agreed with him, but thought that there was some way by which the news vendors might be satisfactorily remain accessible to visitors without being on the streets as at present.

Councilmen Richard Nitting and Gordon were in favor of leaving the news stands where they are, on account of the service they render the transient public, but expressed their opinions that the peanut and watermelon stands were another proposition, since they offered competition to merchants who paid license taxes and high rents. The out-of-town paper vendors, it was pointed out, offered no such competition.

W. R. C. Smith, prominent Atlan-tian, made a short talk to the committee opposing the moving of the news stands and stating that he had already been asked to move his stand, and that he had had many expressions of sympathy from the people who always obtain their hometown papers while in the city. He further declared that the news stands at a convention city should be kept up to date and that he would be glad to have the news stands moved to the downtown district if the ordinance committee would approve the petition from the news vendors which is now being circulated.

Pledges were made by merchants that they will close shop throughout Atlanta at 12 o'clock on that day, and that they will allow their employees attend the fair that afternoon, and that they co-operate in every possible way towards making merchants' day the banner day of the fair.

Westmoreland, president of the Junior chamber, presided, and declared that there should be an attendance on merchants' day of at least 30,000 people, which he said would double the city's population.
The fair was declared to be a success.

Mr. Britton also said that he had incorporated a notice of the Southeastern fair in his newspaper advertisements, and advised all mer-

SHERIFF DENIES HUDSON'S CHARGES

Albany, Ga., September 23.—(Special.)—Sheriff O. F. Tarver tonight characterized as a complete fabrication the statement of Glenn Moore Hudson, who was tried here on the charge of murdering his two stepsons, in which the prisoner charged mistreatment, threats, intimidation and attempts to force him to make a confession.

was made public Thursday through his attorney, Claude Peyton. Sheriff Tarver took up the charges of Hudson in detail and answered them. He declared most of them were pure inventions and the others distortions of facts, and declared the story is nothing but an effort on the part of Hudson "to work up sympathy from the public on the eve of his trial." A number of prisoners in the jail, where Hudson is confined, substantiate the sheriff's statements.

"Anybody in jail or out, who says that any prisoner in the Dougherty county jail has been mistreated in the slightest particular since I have been sheriff is just an infamous liar and you can tell them I said so," is the emphatic language the sheriff used in answering the charges made by Hudson through his attorney.

Solicitor-General Gardner stated last night that Hudson's case would not be reached before the second week of court, which convenes next Monday.

I. A. Earl was shot in the shoulder and is in the University hospital. Baldwin Craig, of this city, was shot in the leg and ankle. Waymond Hankerson, also of Augusta, was shot in the left leg.

In addition to Constable Andrews, the raiding party consisted of United States Revenue Officer P. J. Coleman and Deputy Sheriff Nollie Robinson, of Aikens.

The still was of 65-gallon capacity. Gathered about it were 100 gallons of beer mash, 10 gallons of whiskey and 8 or 10 sacks of corn meal. The outfit was located on what is known as Hollow creek, just below Beech island.

No Early Reduction in Rediscount Rates

Under present conditions existing in the southeastern states, with fall crop movements just getting under way, there is no indication that the Federal Reserve Bank will reduce its rediscount rate from 6 per cent within the next few weeks, according to opinion from authoritative sources Friday night.

At the present time, with heavy crop movements in sight, the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta, as well as those of Richmond and Dallas, are borrowing banks. All the reserve banks are required to keep 40 per cent of their notes in reserve and 55 per cent of their deposits. The Atlanta bank, with a percentage of 41.4 actual reserves, is just barely over this limit. The adjusted percentage is 32.1, which indicates that the Atlanta bank is borrowing from other reserve banks which have high percentages of reserves.

There has been an increase of $100,000,000 to the gold holdings during the week, and a decrease of approximately $100,000,000 in total bills on hand, so that the reserve ratio of the New York bank jumped from 34.1 to 38.6, the highest point ever reached in the history of the bank.

After deducting 50 per cent for reserves against deposits, the bank now has practically $1.35 reserve in gold against every dollar of its outstanding federal reserve notes. This is a record for the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.
